FROM THE NEST:

Storm season is here! May I remind you that every supermarket has free brochures to explain how to handle such a situation? Your utility companies have helpful, important information too. At Brandywine, we can't tell you what to do, but common sense dictates, so keep yourselves out of harm's way. Those residents with special need are generally in the know of what measures to take for emergency service. For all others, you should be prepared with a checklist of items to have on hand, evacuation procedures, and above all, please make sound decisions for any threatening weather condition. Enjoy your summer and keep up with the latest news! Thank you all, Audrey Murphy
