MITIGATION – Garage Doors

To meet code, it's necessary to make sure you have the proper strength door to begin with. Some of the original doors are still in Brandywine and they cannot be reinforced to meet code.

Get someone to inspect yours before going further. Speak to your insurance agent too and know where you stand in a catastrophic condition. I spoke with two contractors and it's safe to say, they both agree with this advice. Anyone wanting to look at my garage door please feel free to come by. I had an inspection on mine recently.

ATTIC ACCESS – Gulf Wind Builders is continuing the Wind Mitigation Inspections through the community. These inspections are required every 5 years for insurance. In order to keep our insurance cost down, we are having the builder add a 3rd nail to each rafter. They need access to your attic for the inspection so we will be contacting you to schedule a time for your building.

As part of our new contract with Comcast, rewiring of Brandywine began on February 10th! We will be contacting you again for attic access. The contactors will need to get into the attics and also access your cable outlets in your home. The outlets need to be tested to ensure you are able to get the best signal possible.
